3	Class Councillors to feedback Key discussion points from this week's agenda about:	Where is the place you like to read most, why is that? Walnut: At the local library because it is cosy and quiet. Elder: In my own room, as it is quiet and you have your privacy. Redwood: The park in the sunshine or underneath a desk at home. What are you enjoying most about your current book? Walnut: The Wild Robot because it is very detailed and transports me into the story. Poplar: Who's in the Loo because it has funny jokes that have really entertained me. Has there been a particular book this year that you would like to recommend to others in class? Redwood: Windrush Child because of the history links it makes. Poplar: Captain Underpants because it is a graphic novel and he does really outrageous things that will make readers laugh. Cedar: Tom Gates, which is fun and easy to read. Is there a genre of book you don't usually read, but are actually quite fascinated by? Walnut: I am fascinated by scary or horror stories, I just don't want to read them before bed. Elder: Mysterious books with interesting story lines. Maple: Non-fiction texts.	Class councillors to feedback to classes.
	Rights Respecting School Award	Assembly Reflections What was successful? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Having both a video and children presenting in real life was effective and engaged the audience. Everyone presenting had something to contribute and were loud and clear. The video the Year 5 children developed with Jen was easy for all to understand and had children's perspective. Everyone left our assemblies knowing what the rights of the child are. What could be developed for next time? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> To continue to develop our confidence when presenting – making sure we understand what we are presenting – knowing our lines or talk points. 	Our Silver Action plan to be reviewed next week.
